CONGRESSMAN J. D. POST INTERESTS GUARDED IN THE HOUSE CAUCUS

Ohio Democrats in Congress Meet Representatives of the Ohio Legislature and Discuss Plans for Redistricting the State--Gerrymander is Now Considered Well Under Way.

MAP OUT TEN SAFE DISTRICTS

Concede Eleven to Republicans. With Possibility That Several Will Be Come Democrats Ground—Legislative Committee Journeys to Washington and Confer With Members of Buckeye Delegation in House of Representatives.

Washington, April 8.—At a conference between Democratic members of the Ohio delegation in congress and a committee of four representing the Democrats of the Ohio legislature, with 11 safety Democrats, or doubtful, was the reorganization plan agreed upon. Representative W. D. Fulton of Indiana, county chairman of the committee on federal relations of the lower branch of the legislature, William Deane of Williams, secretary of the committee, Representative Louis Day of Ross and C. W. Kemper, clerk of the house, comprised the committee.

No definite information as to the boundaries of the proposed new districts was permitted to leak out. It is said, however, that Representative Andrew Anderson, Astorbrook, Allen, Barker, Claypool, Deane, Post and Sharp are given districts that are safely Democratic.

It is also understood that no chance is contemplated in the Twelfth district. The reorganization is based on the hypothesis that there will be no increase in the membership of the house under the new law, but if there is an increase and Ohio gets one or more additional districts, the Democrats have decided that all the additional congressmen shall be elected at large.

Which Comes First?

Democrats Undecided Between Reciprocity and Tariff Revision. Washington, April 8.—The Democratic ways and means committee decided to submit the problem of what is to be done with the Canadian reciprocity agreement by the majority in the house to a caucus of Democrats, to be held Monday or Tuesday. The caucus will be held to determine whether the Canadian agreement is to be taken up immediately or postponed until after consideration of the wool schedule revision of the Payne tariff bill.

Ohio's New Congressmen Go After Plums Like Veterans. Washington, April 8.—The new Democratic representatives from Ohio have learned their lesson readily and are not slow in asking for what they want. Representative Goeke introduced two bills, each appropriating $75,000

Martin Named As Leader Of Senators

Bailey Faction Scores Victory In Senatorial Caucus

Washington, April 8.—United States Senator Thomas S. Martin of Virginia was elected chairman of the Democratic caucus of the senate. The chairmanship carries with it the nominal leadership of that body. Mr. Martin got 21 votes as against 15 cast for Benjamin F. Shreve of Indiana.

Senator Martin is a conservative, and was opposed by the friends and followers of William F. Bryan and certain so-called progressive Democrats, led by Senator Stone of Missouri and Senator Owen of Oklahoma. It has been said that Mr. Bryan himself has been active in the campaign against the Virginian. The Martin faction is a group for the better side of the Democratic in the senate. All of the new Democratic senators except Chilton of West Virginia and John Sharp Williams of Mississippi voted against Martin.

Talks Of Peace With President

Bryan Has Plan Which He Unfolds at White House

Washington, April 8.—A plan for the furtherance of world peace was suggested to President Taft by William Jennings Bryan. The Nebraska spent over an hour at the White House discussing his project. The plan contemplates an application to the field of international relations of the method now in use in some countries for the settlement of labor disputes. It is a step toward arbitration and is designed, according to Mr. Bryan's views, for nations that are not yet willing to take the full step for the arbitration of all international disputes.

Irish Colleens Come to Show How to Make Laces and Rugs

It is quite likely that these Irish colleens, who have just arrived in the United States to show how to make laces and rugs, will find that the American people are not so much interested in their work as they are in their dress. The colleens, who are from Ireland and other parts of the British Isles, are known for their skill in making laces and rugs. They are now in the United States to show their work to the American people. The colleens are dressed in traditional Irish dress, which includes long skirts, blouses, and shawls. They are also wearing hats and jewelry. The colleens are standing in a room, possibly a workshop or a school, with various items of lace and rug-making materials visible in the background.

ALAMEDA HOTBED OF REVOLT

Bodies of Two Leaders Exposed in Public For Two Days as Horrible Example, but Serves Only to Add Fuel to Insurrection and Hundreds Flock to Standard of New Leader. Women and Girls Shot Down by Yaqui Indians.

New Orleans, April 8.—Mail from Chihuahua, April 2.—As the result of the massacre of Francisco and Andres Porillo and 66 of their followers while they slept and the shooting of several innocent women and girls, every man who owns a gun or can get one is enlisting with the rebels in the Alameda district.

The Porillo brothers were members of a good family, wealthy and popular in society. They sought excitement in the ranks of the rebels and organized an enthusiastic half-regiment of from 400 to 500. Their first engagement was the taking of Alameda March 22. This town is 12 miles east of here, on the Kansas City, Mexico & Orient. Feeling secure in their numerical strength, and the fact that the garrison at Chihuahua is busy with its own troubles, the young men showed their lack of military experience by posting no sentries or outposts. A band of 150 federal soldiers and the Yaqui Indian volunteers fell upon the sleeping rebels at daylight on April 1 and slew 66 of them where they lay. The Indians then went on the town, and in this exploit killed several women and young girls. Bodies of the two handsome young leaders were displayed for two days in this city. Instead of terrifying the natives it enraged them, and as the story goes through the countryside it is gaining recruits by the score for the rebel commanders. Some of the rebels escaped, awakening in time to kill six federals, including two officers. "Triana" is a new leader among the insurgents who has jumped into prominence. He has a force of 500

Woman Candidate Is Counted Out

Hannewell Must Get Along With Mere Man For Mayor

Wellington, Kan., April 8.—After winning the majority of Hannewell, Kan. Mrs. Ella Wilson was counted out and the certificate of election was given to O. M. Akers.

When the vote was counted the judges found the same number for each candidate for mayor. A law was found to decide the tie by casting lots. When the slips were drawn, Mrs. Wilson won. The judges made their return to show her election and placed the ballots in an envelope, which was unsealed. When the count met later, instead of canvassing the returns the ballots were taken from the envelope and counted again. In this count, they asserted, Akers was elected by one vote.

ADMITS FIRING SHOT

Kansas City Man Wins Merchant Riding With Wife.

Kansas City, April 8.—Two shots fired from bushes along North Liberty street, Independence, Mo., with a shotgun, struck William E. Hagan, a flour dealer of Kansas City, Mo., as he was driving in his buggy. He is dangerously wounded in the right breast and right arm. Hagan declared he did not know who did the shooting or why it was done.

Later John Bramhall, a claim agent for the Metropolitan Street Railway company, announced that he had done the shooting. He said his wife was in the buggy with Hagan. Mrs. Bramhall admitted that this was true, and said her frequent trips with Hagan were purely on business.

ARBOR DAY CEREMONIES IN THE CITY SCHOOLS TREES ARE PLANTED

The April Sun Burst from Behind Banks of Gray Clouds and Shone Splendor Upon the Work of Planting--Children Throw in Their Shovels of Earth and Everywhere the Spirit of the Day Prevailed.

With the planting of trees, ivy and flowers to perpetuate the classes of 1911, Arbor Day was celebrated in the public schools Friday.

After a week of grey skies and somber clouds the fickle April sun smiled down upon the planting and the happy children as they threw in their shovels of dirt.

The Central grounds witnessed the most elaborate ceremonies, as there were three beautiful little maples planted, and the large number of children, with a throng of visitors, presented a picturesque scene, suggestive of May day and its merry-making.

The four "baby" grades were particularly captivating as they planted the tree for the first time, and were veritable little "spring beauties."

In Miss Bell's first grade the tiny girls wore green caps, trimmed with violets and carried great bunches of flowering clove buds, while the little boys wore red, white and blue caps and waved flags.

The children of these grades represented trees, flowers or birds. Miss Bell's little ones imitating every bird in the cunningest of bird songs.

Miss Patton's babies gave a beautiful little flower play, with Alice Parrott rose queen and Josephine Bowen, Sunshine Fairy, and twenty-five little tots in green caps and bows, sitting around the Queen.

A "Sweet Pot" play was given by Miss Thompson's children. The "Sweet Pot" babies were Lora Brownell, Mary Jane Wilson, Ethel Morgan, Marie, Nell, Margaret, Crona, Martha, Pauline, Hazel Buckley, Beulah Barnes, Kate Burnett.

Miss Veal's slightly older children were very good in their representation of the trees of our country.

Another tree was planted with appropriate exercises by the second floor, including the rooms of Misses Baugh, Collopy, Keiso and McCafferty, and the third tree, by the third floor grades of Misses Owens, Fultz, Pinkerton and Van Kirk, these grades also taking part in the exercises.

After the planting all the Central pupils, six hundred or more, formed in a march and covered the grounds with a series of pretty figures. At the end of the march the children grouped in front of the building and sang "My Country 'Tis of Thee" with splendid spirit, under Miss Shoen's direction, winding up with the state song.

All the rooms of Central were decorated with pictures of trees, flowers and birds drawn by the children, and other suggestions of the day, and programs were given outside before the outside planting.

well given by George Miller, his voice especially good.

Miss Louise Sawyer was charming in her presentation of "Birds in Poetry".

"The Carboniferous Age" was the subject of an excellent address, mainly in delivery by Cecil Hays.

An optimistic little poem, "Whatever the Weather May Be," was effectively given by Ellen Woodland, and Lela Townsend had a spicy reading, "Every Day Botany".

Harry Bitzer was interesting in his very interesting oration, "Bird Migration".

Illus's poem, "The Old Swimming Hole," with its daintiest was well done by George Jackson.

Sennath Kellogg's imitation of the bird tones in her reading, "The Boholink," was exceedingly clever, and the number one of the best on the program.

Arbor Day is becoming one of the school events of the year.

Circleville Saloonists Enjoin Auditor

Yesterday a score or more of "saloonists" who have been operating in Circleville since that town was supposed to go dry, filed a suit in the Common Pleas court to enjoin the County Auditor of Pickaway from collecting several thousands of dollars, Alken tax, assessed against them for keeping a place where intoxicating liquors were sold as a beverage.

The plaintiffs allege that the auditor of state without authority of law and without any warrant, in fact directs the county auditor of Pickaway county to enter their names upon the tax duplicate for collection of the Alken tax upon the grounds that the plaintiffs have been engaged in the traffic of intoxicating liquors, and if not paid, their property will be sold to pay the tax.

"Bell Buzzard" Seen Once More

The wonderful "Bell Buzzard," a buzzard said to have a bell about its neck, which emits this note of three notes, and which was seen and heard in this county by a number of persons last year, has made its appearance in Ross county near London, where Thomas Robinson, noted for his truth-telling qualities, played the "Bell Buzzard" and saw it soaring high above his head.

This bird has made its appearance in this county each year for a number of years, and is said to have been captured when young and a bell suspended from its neck.

WORK OF ASSESSORS IS GREATLY INCREASED

Department of Agriculture Makes Application for Statistical Information to Promote Agriculture Throughout the State--Admonishes Ohio Farmers to Stay in Ohio.

The work of all township assessors will be greatly increased by the additional labor of securing information for the Department of Agriculture, every assessor being compelled to glean whatsoever information the Department of Agriculture desires.

Auditor Henkle is in receipt of a letter of instruction and blanks from Secretary A. P. Sandles, and a blank containing a series of questions must be filled out and sent to the Department before the assessors can secure their compensation. This action is under a law empowering the Department of Agriculture to demand the collection of all such information relative to agriculture, agricultural labor, waste and uncultivated lands, undeveloped resources and decrease of rural population.

Here are the questions on which the assessors must collect information to answer:

1. How many acres of wood land in your township?

2. How many acres of waste and uncultivated land in your township?

3. How many acres in your township formerly used for farming purposes are now worn out and not cultivated?

4. How many farmers in your township own their own farms?

5. What is the judgment, was the loss in dollars of crops past year by diseases among crops?

6. How many persons have gone from your township to other states and added in last two years?

7. How many farmers in your township have left the state to seek other towns or cities in last two years?

8. How many farmers in your township have had no crops above corn among their crops?

9. How many deserted stations in your township? "Deserted mills?" "Deserted farms?" "Deserted roads?"

10. How many farmers in your township did not attend any kind of agricultural meeting during past year?

11. How many farmers in your township have had no crops above corn among their crops?

12. How many farmers in your township do not read an agricultural paper? Bulletins of Ohio Department of Agriculture? Bulletins of Ohio Experiment Station?

All persons should not hesitate to give all information under the foregoing questions, that the assessors desire.

In addition to this the Department admonishes Ohio farmers to stay in Ohio. The article is well worth considering, and says:

STAY IN OHIO

Thousands of Ohio people are leaving Ohio farms. Some are going to the towns and cities, and others out of the state. According to the last census thirty-eight Ohio counties have few people in them than ten years ago, and thirty-four counties have less than twenty years ago. Some of our farm lands have been decreasing in their crop yields per acre. Ohio has all the opportunities and possibilities of any other state. If our people will only inform themselves how to get the most out of the dirt. Many applications come to the Ohio Department of Agriculture for farm laborers. Kentucky, Missouri and New York co-operate with the Bureau of immigration at Washington and New York by which means a better class of foreign immigrants is secured for farm work. If there is sufficient demand among farmers for this kind of hired help, the Ohio Department of Agriculture will look into the matter and see if some such arrangement can be made as in states above mentioned.

We are starting out to preach the gospel "Stay in Ohio." We believe that the rainbow comes down right here in our own state, and we can find a pot of gold in Ohio if we will only dig for it. We will be glad to have you study some of these conditions while going over your township and write us a personal letter giving your ideas, and make our suggestions your thing would be of benefit to us.

We hope you will take an interest in this matter, as Ohio needs friends like this, better Mr. Sandles, of the Department of Agriculture, than any other person that upon application of these conditions and from trees will be inspected for the purpose of securing a better class of foreign immigrants.

Change Of Venue Denied Hunt

Judge Dickson Wants to Try Cox in Hamilton County

Cincinnati, O., April 8.—Common Pleas Judge Dickson probably saved George B. Cox, indicted Republican leader from trial in Hamilton county on his third indictment for perjury by setting aside the change of venue ordered by Judge Gorman. He said, however, that if the supreme court held that he was without authority he would not advise the action.

Perjury charge was previously asked in Judge Dickson to withdraw his decision pending the outcome of the supreme court proceedings now before the supreme court.

"These are the charges of venue," Judge Dickson said, "and I have no authority to set aside the proceedings in this case without the process of law, without really any process of law, said Judge Dickson in a written opinion. The accused should be tried within the county in which the crime was committed, in the county where his friends live."

Judge Dickson held that Cox was not given an opportunity to answer the motion for a change of venue.

"All these proceedings and motions Judge Gorman were held in violation of the purpose of giving some advantage over the accused person without due process of law," declared Judge Dickson. Therefore, he ordered that the change of venue entry must be vacated and set aside and held for nullity.

He urged both sides to proceed in an orderly, legal manner with the case pending the proceedings in the supreme court, to the end that justice may be done.

A LOSING GAME.

The "strained relations" which exist between Governor Harmon and some of the state senators of the same political faith as the governor, threaten to result disastrously to some of the proposed enactments which the people of the state have believed would benefit them immensely.

It is unfortunate that this misunderstanding exists and that it results as it does in either blocking or emasculating to such an extent that they are absolutely valueless, proposed laws which the people of the state sincerely believe will operate for great good.

It is evident too that the "hitch" is not one of principle—not in reality a disagreement between the governor and the "insurgent" senators as to the soundness of the proposed laws, but rather a difference in political matters.

It has, perhaps, placed the senators in a far worse light with the people than it has the chief executive.

The senators who refused to back up Governor Harmon's legislative program seem to be wholly unmindful of the well-known fact that the Governor has made two successful campaigns on his advocacy of these measures, and the people, by twice electing him, have spoken in no uncertain tones their approval of these measures.

Whether they work weal or woe is not the question now, as the measures proposed by Governor Harmon have been explained to the people in two campaigns and during the two years which elapsed between these campaigns, and they have twice voted in support of the enactment of the legislation so strenuously urged on the stump and in the partisan press.

There is no disguising the fact that the people of Ohio will not take kindly to blocking the program which they have "O. K.'d".

Instead of injuring the governor with the people, the insurgent senators, are simply making him stronger every day.

As matters now stand it is unfortunate for all concerned, except the governor, that the proposed legislation is not speedily enacted as promised.

Public opinion is unanimous almost in favor of many of the bills which have been either pondered outright or mortally wounded by some of the governor's political enemies.

Perhaps, politically, from the standpoint of the senators especially, the governor deserves a setback. But be that as it may, the halls of the legislature are not supposed to be a political checker board and the people's property rights are far too sacred to be used as instruments with which the game of politics may be played.

A GENERAL AWAKENING.

Transition political, commercial, scientific and religious has never been so active in all the ages of the world. The whole universal globe seems to be on one grand ferment. People are getting active. Portugal had a bloodless revolution; deposed a monarch and set up a republic in the twinkling of an eye. Japan has lately thrashed Russia. China is beginning to rub her eyes and set up and look around. The young turks have taken charge of the affairs of their nation. Prosperity has gone rampant around the world and the threads of commerce have woven and interwoven every nation in their net. Darwinism settled over the Christian world like an exhalation from the inferno, but the church is beginning to see a new light. For the last fifteen or twenty years most of our prominent scientists have styled themselves materialists. Lately Ernst Haeckle, the famous German scientist and philosopher, and strongest leader of all materialists, has pronounced himself a believer in immortality. He says "Immortality in a scientific sense is conservation of substance, being therefore the same as conservation of energy as defined by physics, or conservation of matter as defined by chemistry" and follows with this remarkable passage: "It is just as inconceivable that any of the atoms of our brain or of the energies of our spirit should vanish out of the world as any other particle of matter or energy could or does".

Dr. Alfred Russel Wallace, the co-worker of Darwin, in the development of his theory of evolution, comes forward and believes not only in a God and future life, but in all sorts of intermediate gods, demi-gods and angels.

People have trembled for the Christian doctrine in the hands of science, but the trend of thought at the present time shows that the scientific investigation of nature's secrets and the harnessing of nature's forces and the development of those necessarily antagonistic to the development of man's higher and nobler attributes, should be as it perhaps always will be, the most worthy and necessary companion of such advanced development.

POETRY FOR TODAY

IF
If you can keep your head when all about you
Are losing theirs and blaming it on you,
If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you,
But make allowance for their doubting too;
If you can wait and not be tired by waiting,
Or being lied about, don't deal in lies,
Or being hated, don't give way to hating,
And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise;

If you can dream—and not make dreams your master;
If you can think—and not make thoughts your aim;
If you can meet with triumph and disaster
And treat those two impostors just the same;
If you can bear to hear the truth you've spoken
Twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools,
Or watch the things you gave your life to, broken,
And stoop to build your life up with worn-out tools;

If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,
Or walk with kings—nor lose the common touch;
If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you;
If all men count with you, but none too much;
If you can fill the unforgiving minute
With sixty seconds' worth of distant love,
Yours is the earth and everything that's in it,
And which is yours to be, a man, my friend,
Roadward running in the Army of the Good.

The Power of a Great Book

John Ruskin, the Author of "Sesame and Lilies."

THIS is a great book, and you should read it.

It is a great book, for the reason that it is the key to all other books. It has been said for nearly fifty years and in that time it has become so popular that you can buy it in all sorts of editions—some of which are expensive, while others cost only a few cents.

There must be a reason for this popularity.

The title of the book is certainly puzzling. We know what Lilies are, but what does Sesame mean? It means, as the author himself explains, bread made of that old enchanted Arabian grain, the Sesame, which opens doors, not of robbers' treasures, but of kinks' treasures.

A book then, about Arabian grain and lilies must be a book on farming, or it is not, although it is a book about culture.

In the original edition of this work there are two long chapters, or essays. The first is called "Of Kings' Treasures" the second, "Of Queens' Gardens."

The first is about the treasures contained in books; the second, about how and what a young woman should read, to be the Queen of her Garden—possessing the full parity of womanhood that becometh the Garden of Life.

In the first chapter, Mr. Ruskin tells us not only how to read books, but he points out a lesson that every young man and woman should learn to understand the world we live in.

The lesson is this: In the great books written by men of long ago, we find the true picture of the past. In the world about us, things are happening and conditions exist which make the history of our own day. In these things, but we cannot learn to read what is happening. WHAT IS HAPPENING? WHAT IS TO BE? What is to be the future, the books of tomorrow will tell.

So it all amounts to this: By reading true books, and by reading the life about us, we are learning the secret of what human life ought to be in the world. To learn the TEACHER'S TRUTH TO THINK IN THE RIGHT WAY.

Mr. Ruskin takes great books seriously, for he says: "I would argue upon every young man, as the beginning for his household, to obtain, in modest form, the seven volumes of an increasing series of books, for THE THREE LIFE, make the noble library of all the future in his room, the most studied and decorative piece, every volume having its place, like a statue in a niche."

You can understand that when a young man has done this, and has extracted the secrets from great books, he will love them for what they have taught him. From this point of view, which is the right one, you can understand why Public Libraries are so valuable to the citizens of a community.

Having spoken thus to young men, what has Mr. Ruskin to say to young women?

He first reminds us that in the year at least five hundred persons died of starvation in the British Isles, (at the time the pictures were given). That is a great human fact.

If people above us are dying of starvation, we should learn to read that page in the book of life about us, to know why such things can happen, at the same moment that other men, "gold plates in another part of man."

Then to girls he says: However good you may be, you have faults. However dull you may be, you can find out what they are and try to get rid of them.

To get rid of them, he advises girls to write down what you think of yourself, doing it honestly and without fear. Then go to work and improve yourself.

Then he adds two other rules: 1. You must not be useless. 2. You must not be cruel.

To be useless is to waste the divine power that lies slumbering in every one of us. To be cruel is to misuse that power.

After telling us how to get on in life in the right way, and how to avoid being useless and cruel, Mr. Ruskin shows that young men and women have thus become true lords and ladies.

Monday is the last discount day on gas and electric light bills.

IMPROVED MARKET STREET WILL BE SPRINKLED WITH OIL AND ASPHALTUM

Practically All Citizens Join in Movement
Which Has Been Tried in Many Other
Cities and Found Satisfactory---Experiment
Will be Watched With Much Interest---If Successful Other Streets
May be Oiled Also.

About a week ago persistent rumors were circulated of a movement which later proved well founded that Washington D. C. It is not to be surprised in street improvements as it has been shown she will not be distance in other ways.

The move which is somewhat in the form of an experiment has now taken definite form. The citizens of Market street have pledged without money to purchase one 6700 gallon tank of oil from the standard oil Co. which is to be used in covering Market street from Fayette east to Forest and south one-half a square on Forest. The solution to be used will be 40 per cent asphaltum, as a heavier solution makes the surface of the street sticky. The oil company will furnish a regular oil-sprinkler which is to be provided by a water-sprinkler and will also provide an experienced man to oversee the work. The street will be oiled only within twelve feet of the curb as it has been proven a waste of money to oil the entire surface of the street, as plenty of oil works from the center to the side without harming it.

Last night Mr. Fred Mack who is in charge of the movement held a somewhat final conference with the oil company's representative and before noon today practically everyone in the district had pledged support who had not done so before. It is significant that the Methodist church has also given its assistance for it shows that others beside those on Market street favor the proposition and that in the future other streets are in the way of improvement.

Everywhere the oiling system has been used it has proven a grand success, and it is expected it will be so here. A fine example of this is the city of Urbana. Last year the citizens at that place voted two streets which are paved with asphaltum. Their city council has taken the matter up this spring and bought the tanks of oil which will cover more than four miles of streets.

Not only Urbana but a great many cities all over the state are taking up the plan and our citizens have won the point early in the campaign. They hope to do away with the evils of both dust and mud, one of the other of which has nearly always been present when sprinkling has been used and all indications at present seem favorable. The cost of this method of caring for the streets does not equal that of sprinkling and we have illustrated its superior results.

A very small amount of objection has been made to the project thus far for the citizens as usual have shown themselves to be progressive.

TATMAN STILL SEEKS FOR HIS WAYWARD WIFE

John Finley Tatman, whose domicile is located in the southern part of town along the D. T. & A. railroad, is still looking for his wife who left the erstwhile happy home a few weeks ago. Tatman has turned detective and has been looking for his wife in Chillicothe. The Chillicothe advertiser speaks of Tatman and his troubles as follows:

"John says it is his duty to find her, and he is acting as his own detective in the case because the police in various cities didn't afford him any satisfaction. John suspects the man his wife ran away with and he says if he can find him he can locate the woman."

Finley says he was in Chillicothe buying scrap iron, when he got word from his mother-in-law that his wife had left for Springfield. He hurried home and followed her to that city but in vain. He then appealed to the police at Columbus, Circleville and this city, but they didn't help him any, consequently he is out on his own hook trying to locate her.

"The man got a tip this week that a former Washington resident was seen here, and he believes the man knows where his wife is. Up to noon however, he had been unable to locate the man, although he found several persons who had seen him. Tatman is 42 years old and his wife 32. He says they have been married for sixteen years and never had any trouble before. They have no children, but have buried four."

FEDERAL BUILDING PROBABLE

There has been a good deal of loose talk at odd times during the last year to the effect that Washington may have a federal building, but nothing definite was ever discovered back of the rumor. True, at the last session of Congress, near the windup, Congressman Keifer introduced a bill providing for an appropriation of $150,000 for a federal building in this city, but it was involved in the general appropriation bill and was smothered.

On Thursday last, Congressman Post introduced a bill providing for an appropriation of $100,000 for a federal building here and significant determination to fight in earnest for the passage of the bill.

Introduced this early in the session and meeting with approval of some of the most influential men in Congress, notably Congressman Cox of Dayton, our federal building seems now to be much more than a bare possibility.

DALE'S

Oil Company In Urgent Need Of Funds

The Highland Oil & Gas Company, which is drilling near Greensburg has pushed the drill down to a depth of 1500 feet and have an excellent prospect of striking a good flow of oil or gas, but the funds raised to make the test have been exhausted and it is now necessary to raise more money before the drill goes deeper.

The company is testing what is regarded as the most favorable "wild cat" territory in this part of the state, and it is believed the necessary funds will be subscribed and a thorough test made.

Engineers Take Up Cause Of Shopmen

Discharges May Result In Strike on Pennsylvania Lines.

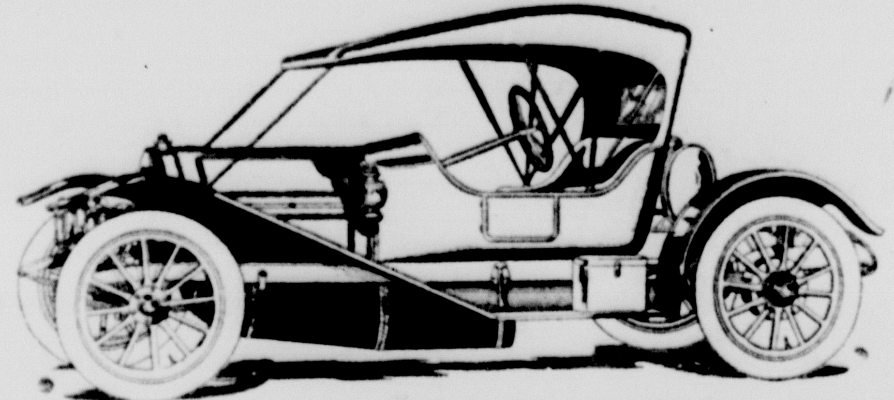

Pittsburgh, April 9. President James M'Creia of the Pennsylvania Railroad arrived here today to confer with the heads of the Brotherhoods of Locomotive Engineers and Trainmen, in regard to the situation that has developed on the Pennsylvania system as the result of wholesale discharges of shopmen, which are alleged by the men to have been due to the fact that the American Federation of Labor had succeeded in organizing a considerable portion of the shop hands into unions. The heads of the various brotherhoods are declared to be in entire sympathy with the shopmen and a general strike is not regarded as an improbability.

The shopmen allege that their efforts to organize the various shops have been successful, despite the fact that all active union sympathizers and workers were discharged as soon as their activities came to the notice of officials. The company officials on the other hand, allege that there have been no discharges for joining or forming unions, but that the men were merely laid off owing to lack of work.
